

Registration is Now Open for the 2026 Blackbaud K-12 User Conference

November 5, 2025

Multi-Day Event Will Inspire Innovation, Empower Strategic Leadership, and Foster Meaningful Connections Across the K-12 Community

CHARLESTON, S.C., Nov. 5, 2025 /PRNewswire/ -- Blackbaud (NASDAQ: BLKB), the leading provider of software for powering social impact, is excited to bring back its in-person K-12 User Conference, taking place July 15-17, 2026, at the Boston Marriott Copley Place in Boston, MA.

"We're excited to welcome back the Blackbaud K-12 UC, a conference that has always felt 'just right' in size, format, and community," said Austin Ewachiw, Director of Technology at Calvert Hall College High School and Executive Director of the Blackbaud K-12 Advisory Board. "Its return brings back memories of inspired learning, interactions with product experts, and invaluable post-session conversations. I can't wait to see everyone in Boston again!"

The 2026 K-12 User Conference will be the learning event of the year for K-12 Independent Schools, featuring:

- Role-based learning tracks tailored to your goals and challenges across all offices served by Blackbaud's Total School Solution
- Visionary keynotes and real-world success stories from peer schools
- Interactive product labs and previews of what's next from Blackbaud
- Partner showcases featuring innovative solutions and integrations
- Unmatched networking with peers, partners, the K-12 Advisory Board and Blackbaud experts
- Developers with a deep bench of technical expertise that meets the evolving needs of K-12 institutions
- Q&A sessions with product managers and engineers
- New invite-only School Executive Leadership dedicated track

Also back this year is the popular Unconference, an open, participant-driven forum that gives educators the freedom to lead conversations, collaborate, and discuss topics that matter most to their schools.

"We're bringing together the brightest minds across K-12 education to collaborate, innovate, and reimagine how technology can elevate the student experience," said Mark Davis, vice president, education products, Blackbaud. "Whether you're looking to streamline operations, boost enrollment, or deepen community engagement, this event will equip you with the tools, insights, and connections to make it happen. Blackbaud is advancing AI-driven, connected systems that empower schools to take intelligent, data-informed action across every facet of the student experience." The three-day event will bring together private and independent school professionals, thought leaders, and technology partners to learn, connect, and grow through meaningful conversations, hands-on learning, and shared innovation.

"We're thrilled to welcome the K-12 community back to the Blackbaud K-12 UC for what truly feels like a heartfelt homecoming," said Hiram Cuevas, Director of Information Systems, Academic Tech & Charles S. Luck III '51 Chair of Academic Technology at St. Christopher's School. "Beyond the formal sessions, it's the 'unconference' breakouts, where peers exchange stories, ideas, and support, that capture the spirit of this event. It's more than a conference; it's a space where educators feel seen, heard, and empowered to shape the future together."
